LEVIATHAN TO BE AN AMERICAN LINER

Mercantile Marine Co. Will Operate George Washington and America Also.

The Levisthan, George Washington and America will enter the transatlantic passenger service as part of the fleet of the International Mercantile Marine Company, it was announced yesterday, and will be added to the fleet of the American Line. They will be overhauled by the navy and probably will be ready for operation by November. They will run between New York and Southampton, touching at Cherbourg in both directions.

The Leviathan was formerly the Hamburg American liner Vateriand. She is the largest vessel affoat, with a gross registered tonnage of 54,252. She was built by Blohm & Voss of Hamburg and placed in service in 1914 and was thus virtually a new ship when she was interned at Hoboken at the outbreak of the war. She was saiged by the of the war.
